THE MERCANTILE MARINE "LAW" IN HONGKONG.

We print the following correspondence without comment to day, beyond directing attention to the Harbour Master's extraordinary note:

April 7, 1869.

To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL," Sir.—With your permission we will state that which we consider an abuse, the merchants and underwriters of this port being interested in the matter equally with ourselves.

By its appearance in the columns of the China Mail, the Chamber of Commerce may be induced to look into the question.

On the 5th current the master of the British ship Wenys Castle, discharged the Mate of that ship at the Shipping office. On the 6th he looked at the certificate and references of an officer who had been out of employment since the 28th of December, a resident in the Sailor's Home, and in debt to that Institution. On being referred by this officer to Messrs. Birley & Co., as local references, the master replied: "It is all right, consider yourself engaged and get ready to go on board."

On the evening of the same date the Wenys Castle sailed hence without a certified Mate.

The Law directs that all Foreign-going Ships shall carry Mates and Masters duly certified as competent; thus it imposes upon those who desire to hold these responsible situations the obligation of passing an examination for which fees are exacted.

This being the case, as a contract cannot be made, we would ask—"How do the authorities to whom is confided the Law and its vindication when broken, permit a ship to be cleared without a certified Mate, because while this is permitted, the contract is violated?"

The possession of Certificates is useless if the Articles of a Ship are returned to the Master by authorities who know that the ship is not manned as required by Law.

Signed by MASTER MARINERS.

W. S. LORDING, Esq.

Dear Sir.—Will you be kind enough to inform me whether both mates of the Wenys Castle, which sailed hence on the 6th, were duly certified? A statement has been made to me that one was not.

I am desirous to prevent the currency of such a statement if it is not true; and I apply to you as the best authority on the subject, remaining your's faithfully,

W. S. LORDING.

7th April, 1869.

The Government has no control over the numbers of officers, or crews, or their qualifications, unless they are shipped at the constitution of the staff—for we are sanguine accomplished fact before any over—it would be for suggestions until we this Port, when in the case of British ships we insist on officers being duly qualified Insurance Officers, or Surveyors for them, report to their employers in such matters as give or withhold Insurance as they may think proper. There is no law to regulate the number of officers or men carried by British ships; it is perfectly optional on the part of the owners and masters.

LOCAL.

It is said that a color-sergeant of the 75th Regiment disappeared yesterday evening in a somewhat mysterious manner, and has not since been heard of. As every color-sergeant has, from his seniority, the charge of the payment of his company, the usual suspicions are engendered.

JAPAN seems to have caught the "Exhibition" infection, if we may judge from the proposals recently made in some Yokohama exchanged. The proposition to start a Japan Exhibition is made in all seriousness, and the writers give the preference to Japan over China "on account of the more enterprising spirit of the former over the latter."

The Japanese are a nation a more progressive race than the Chinese, and are consequently better fitted for understanding the advantages that such an institution would have, not only as regards the general acquaintance that would be obtained of foreign goods and manufactures, but also, more than on the previous occasion, as regards the beneficial influence that such a show would have upon the products of their own country."

Says the Japan Herald, and we are not certain that it is far wrong. It further adds that China would be of course invited to send in the undertaking, whilst India might find amongst her produce a likely staple for the Japanese market, and in this case we should have something more than a sentimental interest in the enterprise. We are scarcely so sanguine of the success of such a scheme, however, as are our friends in Japan. But he would be very rash who in 1869 pronounced it impracticable, though we expect to see a telegraphic cable laid hence to Yokohama before we witness the erection of an exhibition building at that port.

The case of Regina v. Saint is not to be carried before the Privy Council formally. But it has gone to Earl Granville, the Secretary for the Colonies, we presume for advice as to what shall be done with it. The nature of the answer may be very confidently anticipated. It is not given to every Governor to meet with such an unhappy conjunction of circumstances as those which afflict Sir Richard MacDowell. Just while he is in the thick of the unpleasant controversy about the gambling revenue, there will be presented the other, astonishing blunder to which he committed his government. How gratifying these things must be to the unofficial members! There was one of their number who raised his voice against the first blunder, but all of them seem to have sympathised with the last—in their "representative" capacities, that is, whatever may be their private opinions.

TO-DAY'S POLICE.

Mr. May on the Bench.

Low Aow, the man charged by Mr. Jarman with the murder of Mr. Holworthy, was brought up and remanded till Friday.

A curious case of speedy and almost clever recovery of stolen property was brought to Mr. May's notice this morning, the facts of which are as under: Captain Sim, E.E., and Mrs. Sim were at dinner at Mr. Pollard's on the 29th ultimo, after which they all went together to the American Theatre Performance at the Club Lusitano. Here Mrs. Sim lost a bracelet, and it was soon recovered from her arm, which was not discovered until they returned home. Of the recovery of the piece of jewellery, Lokong 43 (Nga Fishing) gave evidence. This energetic Chinaman was this morning serving a notice on a pawnbroker in Queen's Road, when he saw prisoner enter the shop and hold up the bracelet to the pawnbroker, as if offering it for pledge. So soon as prisoner seized the lokong, he "made tracks," or rather endeavoured to do so, taking the bracelet with him. Lokong pursued and overtook prisoner, and upon asking him from whom he got the jewellery, prisoner stated that he got it from the learned Q.C. On being asked to go to the Station, prisoner at first refused, but was assisted forcibly by the said active policeman.—Captain Sim said the value of the bracelet was about £10: it was a heavy bracelet set with one or two rings of small pearls.—Prisoner stated that he was a char-coojo to Mr. Pollard, and had carried his mistress to the theatre on the night in question. He picked up the bracelet after leaving the Theatre, and nobody saw him do so, he said nothing to anybody about his piece of good luck.—Mr. May rewarded this enterprising char-coojo with three months' hard labour.

The three women and one Chinese doctor, charged with having kidnapped the little boy of respectable parentage from West Point, were brought up on remand. Mr. Breerton (for Mr. Caldwell) appeared for the 4th prisoner, the doctor.—From the further evidence, on the part of Inspector Grey, a looking and the interpreter, the facts respectively denied to be fully corroborated. Second prisoner took the little boy to the house in Taiping-han, where first prisoner kept her; and according to the second prisoner, the doctor had told them to take the boy to that house, and then offered to restore the child for a certain sum. Third prisoner (who is one of the German Mission girls) was mixed up in some way by referring to her uncle, the doctor.—Mr. Breerton spoke in favor of the Wenys Castle, which sailed hence on the 6th, were duly certified? A statement has been made to me that one was not.

I am desirous to prevent the currency of such a statement if it is not true; and I apply to you as the best authority on the subject, remaining your's faithfully,

W. S. LORDING.

China Mail Office, April 7, 1869.

W. S. LORDING, Esq.

Dear Sir.—Will you be kind enough to inform me whether both mates of the Wenys Castle, which sailed hence on the 6th, were duly certified? A statement has been made to me that one was not.

I am desirous to prevent the currency of such a statement if it is not true; and I apply to you as the best authority on the subject, remaining your's faithfully,

W. S. LORDING.
